The case of Hardwick Savings Bank and Trust Company against R. F. Drennan from Caledonia county was also heard Tuesday afternoon. W. A. Dutton for plaintiff, W. P. Stafford and J. L. Lamson for defendant. This was an action in special assumpsit and has twice been heard in Supreme Court. Plaintiff secured judgment for $936 in June, 1897. This verdict was set aside at the January term of Supreme Court, in 1899, the case was returned the following December and plaintiff secured a verdict of $1053.32. Exceptions by defendant as to certain evidence introduced.

The arguments in the bribery case of State against George W. Smith, from Washington county, were completed Wednesday afternoon. The case of Benjamin A. Bylow against the Union Casualty Company was also heard.

The cases of State against Charles Doherty, market and Charles Doherty against the State of Vermont, petition for a new trial, were reached Wednesday afternoon.

The case of State against Doherty was first taken up. The respondent was in jail, accompanied by his brother and Junior Tracey. He is very pale after his long confinement, but paid the closest attention to the trial. The case was argued by State's Attorney R. A. Hoar and W. A. Lord, and the respondent by E. H. Deavitt and Frank C. Wright.

The first argument for the defense was made by Mr. Deavitt. His exceptions had reference, in part, not so much to the competence of certain testimony admitted, as to its weight.

He dwelt at length upon the evidence admitted as to the shooting and the autopsy. Exceptions were also taken as to the exclusion of certain evidence as to Murphy's condition between the shooting and the time of his death, that would lead the jury to determine what killed him.

Mr. Deavitt argued that the respondent, through his counsel, should have had time to examine the hypothetical questions put to the physician who attended Murphy both at Bolton Falls and in the hospital at Burlington where he died.

Exception was also taken to the exclusion regarding the colored man who worked on the job at Bolton Falls with the respondent, who had threatened to "fix" Doherty. It was claimed by Mr. Deavitt that this evidence would have shown why Doherty fired the revolver at the respondent.

The arguments in the Doherty case were completed Wednesday afternoon, and the petition of mandamus brought by Joseph Yatter against M. E. Smith was heard. Decisions were rendered in both cases.

Decisions were rendered Tuesday afternoon by Judge Munson in two cases. Peter Garraway against Charles Miller from Franklin county. Judgment for defendant affirmed.

Aaron D. Ellis, apt., against the estate of Asahel S. Watkins, Walter C. Lander executor, from Rutland county. Judgment for defendant reversed and cause remanded.

Court went in this morning at nine o'clock. Only one decision was announced and that by Chief Justice Taft. The case was from the town of Moretown, a road case from Washington county. Exceptions dismissed because they were not filed within thirty days.

Shortly before ten o'clock court took a recess until Thursday, July 19, at nine o'clock in the morning, when decisions will be rendered on the cases heard in the forenoon. During the ten working days the court has been in session thirty-five cases have been argued or passed up in briefs.

On Wednesday several laborers from the Rutland and Burlington road were seen at the Rutland-Burlington for intoxication. In the evening Powers called at the jail and asked if the men were arrested. Sheriff Reeves told him they had been arrested and he was sent to the town of Moretown, a road case from Washington county. Exceptions dismissed because they were not filed within thirty days.

Among the concerns which have kept pained with this onward and upward movement in the dry goods firm of the Temple-McCuen Company. The founder of this enterprise, Dexter W. Temple, came to Montpelier from Burlington in 1880 and engaged in the dry goods business in a small way in the quarters on State street now occupied by the Montpelier book store. Six months later Mr. Temple formed a partnership with E. V. Vanorman and under the name of Temple & Company. The old adage, a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump, has been fulfilled in the history of this concern for in two years the business has grown to such an extent that it has moved to its present location on State street.

With this change has come a demand for metropolitan ideas and methods in business. To meet the general demand of the public, which the Montpelier store which furnishes the life blood to the commercial world, the maxims of expansion and reciprocity have been adopted and practiced by the firm. The business has grown to such an extent that it has moved to its present location on State street.

FARRAR AND MUSSEY.

At the adjourned term of United States court, held on Wednesday, John C. Farrar, the defendant, of 101 Waterbury National bank, pleaded guilty to the first count of his indictment that of abstracting the funds of the bank. The other two counts, embracing the same offense, were dropped. Farrar, his counsel, made an earnest plea for mercy, and read a petition signed by a number of citizens asking for a minimum sentence. Judge Wheeler sentenced Mr. Farrar to six years' imprisonment, without hard labor, in the House of Correction.

Mr. Farrar appeared in the court room very composed and calmly answered guilty when the judge questioned him. He seemed relieved when his sentence, one year above the minimum, was pronounced by Judge Wheeler.

Ex-Cashier Mussey of the wrecked Merchants' National bank of Rutland pleaded guilty to embezzling funds of the bank. He was represented by T. W. Molony of Rutland, who pleaded in his behalf.

District Attorney Martin stated that there was in the hearing every dollar abstracted from the bank. Judge Wheeler then sentenced the respondent to seven years' imprisonment, without hard labor, in the House of Correction. There was intense interest. When Mussey was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment without labor a murmur of dissatisfaction arose, and the judge read the indictment.

M. A. McCallure pleaded not guilty to the charge of complicity in wrecking the Rutland bank. His case was continued until October term of court, to be held at $100. At last accounts bail was not forthcoming.

IN SOUTH AFRICA.

LONDON, May 23.—The Transvaal government has informed the newspaper correspondents at Pretoria that it has not considered and does not intend to consider unconditional surrender, but will fight to a finish. Pretoria dispatches affirm that President Kruger, President Steyn and all the most prominent leaders of both republics are determined to continue the resistance, but that a minority of the leaders advocate surrender without terms.
